"Education is what survives when what has been learnt..." B.F. Skinner

"Any learning that has to be pushed into a child may end up doing more harm than good - for many reasons." Jane Healy

"Human nature is innately good." the unconscious processes are in no way immoral. Faults are not corrected by, but brought about by, suppression in childhood. The freer a child is the more it will be considerate and social, the more its chief interests will be progressive, and the instincts...will have valuable social outlets. Homer Tyrrel Lane

"All punishment, all fear tactics deeply scar the child with harmful consequences that can be done to young persons. Manifestations of the depravation of the mind is more deadly harm than any physical one we try to prevent."

"Education should make a world of people looking not to the past but to the future." Froebel

"The Master said, 'If the people be led by laws and uniformity of conduct sought to be given them by punishments, they will try to avoid punishments, but have no sense of shame. If they be led by virtue, and uniformity sought to be given them by the rules of propriety, they will have the sense of shame and moreover will become good.'" Confucian Analects

"Children should be led to discover as much possible. Experience should be told as little as possible and induced to make their own investigations, and to draw their own inferences. They should be led to discover as much as possible."

"Every child begins the world again and what is done with this generation is not passed on to the next."

"Experience is the child of Thought, and Thought is the child of Action. We cannot learn men from books."

"Order and obedience we would always have and of the best schools we ever knew appeared always to the central spectator to be complete without coercion, compulsion and decor." Whitman

"Learning is not attained by chance, it must be sought for with ardour and diligence." Abigail Adams

"Any fool can criticize, condemn and complain - and most fools do."

"Human nature is innately good." the unconscious processes are in no way immoral. Faults are not corrected by, but brought about by, suppression in childhood. The freer a child is the more it will be considerate and social, the more its chief interests will be progressive, and the instincts...will have valuable social outlets. Homer Tyrrel Lane

"Any fool can criticize, condemn and complain - and most fools do."

"Education should make a world of people looking not to the past but to the future." Froebel

"Any learning that has to be pushed into a child may end up doing more harm than good - for many reasons." Jane Healy

"Education is what survives when what has been learnt..." B.F. Skinner

"All punishment, all fear tactics deeply scar the child with harmful consequences that can be done to young persons. Manifestations of the depravation of the mind is more deadly harm than any physical one we try to prevent."

"Children should be led to discover as much possible. Experience should be told as little as possible and induced to make their own investigations, and to draw their own inferences. They should be led to discover as much as possible."

"Experience is the child of Thought, and Thought is the child of Action. We cannot learn men from books."

"Order and obedience we would always have and of the best schools we ever knew appeared always to the central spectator to be complete without coercion, compulsion and decor." Whitman

"Learning is not attained by chance, it must be sought for with ardour and diligence." Abigail Adams

"The Master said, 'If the people be led by laws and uniformity of conduct sought to be given them by punishments, they will try to avoid punishments, but have no sense of shame. If they be led by virtue, and uniformity sought to be given them by the rules of propriety, they will have the sense of shame and moreover will become good.'" Confucian Analects